

Accounting and Audit - Concept

Accounting and Audit specialists help companies manage work more effectively, including financial accounting, paying taxes on time, and financial investment planning. In order to become an Accounting or Audit specialist, it's important to get a complex education, which might be summarized in the following forms:

1. General methods of analyses and courses in Business Administration (taught during the first three years of study);
2. Courses in Accounting and Audit.

Courses offered by our university include the theoretical as well as practical aspects of accounting and finance. These will enable you to become highly trained specialist, and to be a successful employee in any type of organization.